SEPTEMBER 11

The month of September is the saddest of all,
 When the plane hit the north tower wall.
 There are so many questions that we can ask,
 But to find the answers is a hard task.

Where are they now?
 What are they doing?
 Will they ever be back?
 What's the use of a terrorist attack?

Just imagine if you were inside,
 What would you do run or hide?
 You could feel the blazing heat
 Burning away on you feet,
 And wouldn't you panic if you were up high,
 Wishing that the rescuers would soon come by.

People jumped out from the highest floors,
 Others just fled through the damaged doors.
 Some packed into the darkened stairwells
 Choking with dust and deafening alarm bells.

Many belongings that people lost
 Were life long treasures with very little cost
 Turned to dust with a rumble and roar
 Those people's lives are shattered and poor.
